Architecture Project Leader: BUILDING COMMUNITIES

VIA design has a long history of making a lasting impact in our own community; demonstrated through the breadth and scope of our engagements within our region and through the work that we do in our own backyard; none more important than providing affordable housing and community development.

We are seeking a Project Leader for Architecture to advance this focus and firm expertise. Our architecture and landscape projects are associated with client partners ranging from local municipalities, Redevelopment and Housing Authorities, local and national affordable housing developers, and a wide variety of non-profit organizations with focuses on homeless housing, Veteran housing, animal welfare, providing service dogs for Veterans and First-Responders, and environmental conservation. The common theme with all these organizations is that each has a mission and vision for betterment; to improve the lives of those they serve. This is how we practice.

VIA's history and expertise in affordable housing and community development is shifting our design practice and trending to advance how we think about our relationship with the people and places we design for, our responsibility to the environment, and elevating what good design can provide for a community, organization, or individual.
