

Project Leader:

Architecture Project Leader: WORKING WITH WATER

VIA design has a long history of resilience design on the water's edges with environmentally sensitive and flood prone sites. We are seeking a Project Leader for Architecture to advance this focus and firm expertise. Our architecture and landscape projects are associated with master plans, waterfronts, park planning, and urban redevelopments with federal authorities, state institutions, private developers, municipalities, and community groups.

VIA's history and expertise in flood plain resiliency is shifting our design practice and trending to advance how we think about our relationship with the land, our civic and environmental duty, and going beyond what is stipulated by authorities. Our response is moving out front and in pursuit of a paradigm shift.

To learn more of this advancement and these project leader positions please contact bval@viadesignarchitects.com